National History Challenge 2006

The topic for the National History Challenge this year is "Turning Point". Register at <http://www.historychallenge.com.au>. This is a research based competition for students from Year 5 to 12. Entries are due by 21 July 2006 for website entries and 28 July 2006 for all other entries. State judging will be completed by late August 2006.

The National Archives of Australia is sponsoring the "Using Primary Sources" section. They have developed a website to help with this category: <http://www.naa.gov.au/education/challenge.html> The website explains primary sources and links to digitised images of many documents. The Brisbane office will be holding two demonstrations of the website for teachers on 24 & 25 May 2006 at 5pm.

Australia is the only western country without a national human rights act or equivalent. New Matilda has launched a campaign in response to growing concern in the community about the inability of the law to protect fundamental rights like freedom of speech, right to a fair trial, freedom of association, and freedom from detention without trial. For teaching resource material see <http://www.humanrightsact.com.au> or contact nicholas.carney@newmatilda.com

The 2006 Queensland - Smithsonian Fellowship Program has extended the closing date for applications until 16 June 2006. The Smithsonian Institution is the world's largest museum complex and research organisation and offers opportunities for Fellows to undertake research projects in areas including history. Details about the Fellowship Program, including the guidelines and application form, can be found at <http://www.premiers.qld.gov.au/awardsevents>

The 2006 CensusAtSchool program is offering professional development designed to support teachers in implementing CensusAtSchool data in the classroom. Students complete an online questionnaire with questions about themselves and of interest to themselves. Students will then have access to raw test data to use as a resource in answering questions of interest to them. Sessions aim to give teachers confidence in using MS Excel with the CensusAtSchool data. Phone 1800623273 or email censusatschool@abs.gov.au
